

PUBLIC SERVICE ANNOUNCEMENT

For Immediate Release:

April 17, 2014

For More Information:

City of Marquette Arts and Culture Center/ 906-228-0472

arts-culture@mqctcy.org

CHILDREN'S PERFORMANCE WORKSHOP

The City of Marquette Arts and Culture Center will be hosting a Children's Performance Workshop for the original child's play Becky Saves the Bees.

For Ages 6-18, will be held:

Wednesdays, May 14th - June 18th, 4 - 5 pm

$45 city residents/$50 non-city

Workshop will assign acting roles; teach the global importance of pollinators, and the epidemic, colony collapse disorder. All kids get parts! Call 228-0472 to sign up. The final performance will be Friday June 20 at 6pm, Presque Isle Band Shell.

Honey bee populations have been in decline for more than a decade. There is no consensus on exactly why, but most scientists are in agreement that increased pesticide use as well as chemical treatments used on densely populated domestic beehives are part of the problem. Becky Saves the Bees will teach participants and audiences the global importance of pollinators and the epidemic Colony Collapse Disorder or CCD.

To sign up, call the MACC at 906-228-0472 or e-mail arts-culture@mqctcy.org.