BARAGA AVENUE AT MCCLELLAN AVENUE TRAFFIC CONTROL CHANGE

The City of Marquette has been involved over the last year with an ongoing traffic study for the new hospital that will be constructed at 850 West Baraga Avenue. Upgrades will be required to the U.S. 41 corridor as well to the local streets that will service this new hospital. A temporary traffic warrant has been issued by the City of Marquette Police Department to not allow left hand turns off of Baraga Avenue onto McClellan Avenue for those vehicles that are heading south towards U.S. 41.

This intersection, the intersection of McClellan Avenue and Washington Street, as well as the McClellan Avenue corridor from Washington to U.S. 41 are being studied to provide mitigation measures for traffic safety, turning movements, signal upgrades, and other traffic related issues.

Beginning July 5, the "No Left Turn" traffic control will be active. This warrant will be in effect until November to determine the safety improvements and guide the City's Police and Engineering staff and their consultant, DLZ of Michigan for permanent measures.
