Planning Commission PSA

The scheduled Planning Commission meeting for Tuesday, Nov. 1 has been rescheduled for a change of location and time.

The meeting will be held at the Citizen's Forum in Lakeview Arena, beginning at 7 pm on Tuesday, Nov. 1.

The Planning Commission will conduct the meeting after holding an Open House public forum that will begin at 5:30 p.m., in the Citizens Forum. The purpose of the Open House is to provide an opportunity for the public to learn about proposed ordinance amendments that have been developed during the past year to address the proliferation of "short-term rental" properties in the city. Staff from Community Development and the Fire Department will be present, along with members of the Planning Commission, to explain the proposed changes to the relevant ordinances and to answer questions. The Planning Commission meeting will include a public hearing to consider recommending the draft ordinance amendments to the City Commission.

Message from Mike

Well, fall is upon us and winter is fast approaching. However, if you've been around long enough, you know that doesn't slow us down. By now most of our street construction projects are either done or winding down, the new hospital foundation is in and the new Board of Light and Power Energy Center and City Service Center are rising from the ground. You may be wondering about the City Service Center and its seemingly massive size. It's actually very close to the size of the previous center with one major difference, the front office space is two stories instead of just one. There are some changes, rearranging if you will, of some of the work areas in the back and the largest portion is the storage area for all of our equipment and is very similar to the old. Still impressive though and we should all be proud that we can support such a facility.

Getting back to road construction, if you thought this past summer was maybe too much, I'm giving you fair warning that next summer may be even busier. We have some very aggressive plans and may very well become the traffic circle (roundabout) capital of the U.P., if not the state. We plan to construct six new ones within the City limits. Three have received quite a bit of public attention because of their relation to the new hospital and the remaining three, while always in our plans, have not.

Two of the three that are related to the new hospital will be located on the US 41/MI 28 by-pass. One will be at Grove Street and the other will be about one quarter mile west to accommodate an entrance to the new hospital campus. The third will be directly south on Baraga Avenue. I should also mention that many of the side streets in this area will also see improvements as well.

Two of the remaining three roundabouts will be on Wright Street; one at the Lincoln Avenue intersection and the other at the Sugarloaf Avenue intersection. The third will be at the intersection of Presque Isle and Fair Avenues.

It's an aggressive plan, but the timing is right and the roundabouts will be huge improvements to safety and traffic flow. So I hope you will all bear with me as it progresses. As always, it's all good for Marquette and our community.

Kraft Hockeyville USA!

History was made on Oct. 4, 2016, as the NHL returned to Marquette 62 years after the Detroit Red Wings scrimmaged the Marquette Branch Prison Pirates and the Marquette Sentinels in 1954. The Buffalo Sabres and the Carolina Hurricanes played at Lakeview Arena in celebration of our community being named Kraft Hockeyville USA. The community wholeheartedly embraced the award and visiting teams and a sense of pride was reestablished in the aging facility and the game of hockey.

Planning for this event was months in the making. It started with an announcement party where Marquette won the title and the realization that there was a lot of work to be done. Standards for NHL play had to be met as well as some major cleanup of the facility. Many volunteers and City staff put in countless hours to help cleanup Lakeview Arena for the national spotlight. Numerous donations of materials and labor poured into the arena for the rehabilitation efforts. Ice construction began in mid-September as the annual Old Timers Tournament was the weekend before the big game.

Thank you to the following generous organizations for their contributions, without which the facility updates and game preparation would not have been possible.

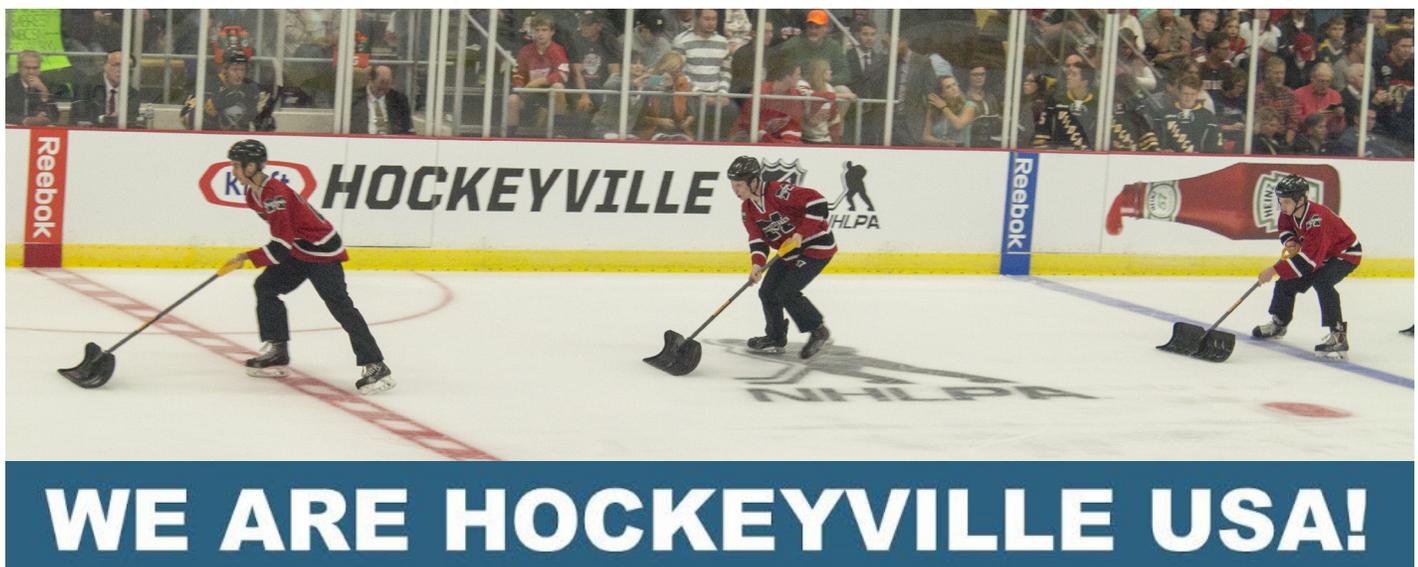

Donations:

- Lowe's: $6,000 in paint and cleaning supplies
- Midway Rentals: Donated rental equipment
- IBEW 906: Electrical repairs
- Gundlach Champion: labor and heavy equipment

Facility Updates:

- Acquired NHL standard glass from the Pepsi Center- Denver, CO
- New cap rail on Russell Arena boards
- Rebuilt compressor #3 and serviced cooling system
- Serviced dehumidification system
- Serviced both Zamboni ice resurfacers
- Painted majority of the interior of the facility
- Painted the Olson locker rooms
- Repaired seats in the Russell Arena
- Built and installed coach platforms for the Russell Arena benches

Now the game has passed and the regular hockey season has started for many of the kids in Marquette. Plans are ongoing for further updates with the remaining prize money as the mechanical systems and energy efficiency of Lakeview Arena is being evaluated. One of the top items that will need to be addressed is the inefficient, expensive and aging ice plant and supporting cooling system. Other immediate needs include dehumidification in the Olson Arena, sound system updates for the Russell Arena, updates to washroom fixtures around the facility and repairs/replacement of aging mechanical systems.

Winter Transition, from Campground to Dog Park

The 2016 camping season at Tourist Park Campground has officially ended as of Oct. 15 and winterization efforts are underway by Public Works staff. Prepping the campground for the winter months is not an easy process as there are multiple facilities that need to be winterized and the leaf clean up can be a tremendous job. Once these tasks are complete; the campground then becomes the winter off leash dog park starting Nov. 1. The roads through the campground are plowed so citizens can walk around the park while their best friends can run around in the deep snow.

Dog Park Rules and Etiquette:

All dogs must be licensed through the City Clerk's Office.

Must have current rabies vaccinations. It is recommended that all visitors get fully vaccinated when they are introduced to other dogs in a public space.

Patrons are responsible for cleaning up after their pets and are encouraged to please help in the spring cleanup.

Know the boundaries of the park and do not allow dogs onto the ice in the Dead River Basin.

Keep a constant eye on all of the dogs there and how they are reacting to each other. Be prepared to remove your dog if necessary.

Fall LSAA Exhibit: Tracy Wascom

The City of Marquette Arts and Culture Center announces its Fall Lake Superior Art Association (LSAA) Gallery exhibition by local artist, Tracy Wascom. While no discrete moment marks an outset, Wascom has been engaged in the arts for almost as long as she can remember; whether she was utilizing photography, computers, video, drawing, or traditional sculpting techniques. Her work is driven by the desire to explore the myriad edges we use to define and demarcate our world—from our moral and ethical boundaries to the geography of maps. She enjoys investigating the ways we designate and divide beauty from ugliness, right from wrong, truth from fiction, dangerous from safe, even here from there by borders that seem clear but are often more deliciously ambiguous. Her work has been shown in more than 50 shows across the United States and recently in Budapest. Wascom graduated from Syracuse University with an MFA in Photography and has been teaching foundations and art history courses since 2005. She lives and works in Marquette, Michigan.

The LSAA exhibit will run from Oct. 4- Nov. 15 with a closing reception held on Thursday, Nov. 10 from 6-8 pm. The public is invited to attend and refreshments will be provided.

November SmallWorks Exhibit: Kristi Mills

The City of Marquette Arts and Culture Center announces its November SmallWorks Gallery exhibition by barkartist, Kristi Mills. Growing up in Muskegon, Michigan, Mills began exploring the arts by taking interest in painting, welding, upcycle sewing and quilting, furniture building and interior home renovation. In 1977 she moved to Marquette to attend Northern Michigan University where she earned a degree in Outdoor Recreation, with minors in Geography and the Social Sciences. She went on to earn a certificate in elementary education and worked in both the local private and public school systems for over 15 years. As an avid woods walker and beachcomber she amassed a unique collection of birch bark, driftwood and other natural materials. In 1997, she produced her first piece of barkart—an emotional response to her mother’s diagnosis of cancer. Since then, she has exhibited her barkart at Art on the Rocks, Glen Lake Art Show, Hiawatha Music Festival, North Muskegon Art Show and the Sault Summer Arts Festival, where she won the Aare Lahti Award for Design. Mills owned and operated a consignment art gallery in Big Bay for several years featuring local and regional artists.

The exhibit will run from Nov. 2-29 with an opening reception held on Thursday, Nov. 10 from 6-8 PM. The public is invited to attend and refreshments will be provided.

Winter LSAA Exhibit: Susan Roubal

The Arts and Culture Center announces its Winter LSAA Gallery exhibition by local artist, Susan Roubal. Raised with three brothers in Marquette, Roubal developed a deep passion for the beautifully rugged scenery that surrounded her. After leaving to pursue a career in medicine as a Pediatric Radiologist at the Children's Hospital of Michigan in Detroit, her future was abruptly redirected by debilitating rheumatoid arthritis. Successfully battling back from the pain and immobility of RA, Roubal quickly refocused her energy on her childhood love of art with a three-day workshop in soft pastels. Since this workshop she has explored other medias, in addition to pastel, and has garnered several awards for her work, including first place at the 63rd Annual Exhibition for the Grosse Pointe Artist's Association and Best New Member Award, first place and Best of Show at the Michigan State Fair, the Bobbi Ameen Award for Best use of Color at the 43rd Annual Art on the Rocks, and first place at the 44th Annual Art on the Rocks, among others. In 2003, Roubal was invited to participate in the fourth Annual Pastel 100, an esteemed international pastel competition that recognizes the top 100 pastel artists in the world.

The LSAA exhibit will run from Nov. 22- Dec. 29 with an artist reception held on Thursday, Dec. 1 from 6-8 PM. The public is invited to attend and refreshments will be provided.

December Smallworks Exhibit: Carl Mayer

The Arts and Culture Center announces its December SmallWorks Gallery exhibition by watercolor artist, Carl Mayer. After graduating from high school in Lake Linden, Michigan, Mayer served four years in the Air Force. Thanks to the G.I. Bill he was then able to attend college – first at Suomi in Hancock, and then at Northern Michigan University in Marquette, where he graduated with a degree in Art Education.

For the next 33 years, Mayer taught art to youth in the Marquette Area Public Schools System and served as the Head of the Art Department until he retired in 1991. During all of this time he remained active in watercolor painting and attended several workshops with well-known watercolor artists like Edgar Whitney, Robert E. Wood and Zoltan Szabo.

Today, Mayer continues to share his love of watercolor techniques in painting classes for adults of varying skills. His exhibit, "Sights and Sounds of Lake Superior," will showcase his favorite subject matter - the great outdoors.

The exhibit will run from Dec. 1-29 with an opening reception held on Thursday, Dec. 1 from 6-8 pm. The public is invited to attend and refreshments will be provided.
